

Abstract

The ~~present~~ invention proposes an apparatus (1) for sensing electromagnetic radiation with local resolution for image-producing sensors that can be economically produced and installed. This is achieved, according to the present invention, in that a micromechanically producible optical imaging system ~~(5)~~ is provided.